BRITISH SAID TO BE IN FULL RETREAT—MAFEKING IS SAFE.

LOURENZO MARQUES, Delagoa Bay, Friday, Jan. 26.—It is reported on good Transvaal authority that Mafeking was relieved Tuesday, January 23. GEN. BULLER IN RETREAT. LONDON, Jan. 27.—Rumor says that Buller's Army is in full retreat. The War office refuses to either deny or confirm the rumor.

Rumor that Buller's Army is in Retreat and War Office Refuses to Confirm or Deny the Reports of Fresh Disasters.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The defense committee of the War Office met this afternoon, Lord Salisbury presiding. There are reiterated rumors that the gravest kind of news from Natal is being conveyed by the War Office. It is even said that General Buller's forces are in full retreat. It is impossible to confirm or deny the reports, as the office maintains silence as to the rumors. They say they have nothing for publication. It is evident, however, from the War Office announcements, that the casualties reported by General Buller occurred in General Lytton's brigade, which apparently was not engaged at Spion Kop, and that there has been severe fighting not yet reported.

GEN. BULLER IS FIGHTING DESPERATELY.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. BOER CAMP, Middelburg, Tuesday, Jan. 27.—The British are now endeavoring to force with 40,000 troops the Spion Kop route to Ladysmith. The fighting on General Buller's position yesterday was terrific. The Boers were fired, rocks dislodged and trenches pierced, but the battle was practically unaltered. The Boers fired only thirty shots. A ball from a shell landed in General Buller's pocket. The only Boer casualties were some horses. The firing ceased at dusk but was resumed this morning in the vicinity of Ladysmith and here, but up to noon it lacked vigor.

GEN. BULLER SCORED BY THE LONDON PRESS.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. LONDON, Jan. 27.—It is the War Office has no news of the catastrophe to General Buller's force reported from Berlin and discredited. Neither has the War Office any explanation at least for publication, of the abandonment of Spion Kop, and there are no advances in this connection from British sources. The evacuation today is regarded as not so serious as at first thought, and commentators are abusing the military authorities both at the front and at home for publishing hasty accounts of an incomplete, half-understood operation, thus alternating thrilling and depressing the nation.

GEN. BULLER SCORED. The afternoon papers describe the General's dispatch as unpleasant reading for the British people, bitterly mortifying to the national pride and damaging to the country's prestige, and scathingly denounce the gazetting at the present time of reports which the St. James Gazette says, "display academic fervor not uncommonly found in combination with content, practical incapacity and passing to snoring when they ought to rebuke and filled with the sting and humor of King's subalterns."

The St. James Gazette sums up its position as follows: "These dispatches show the folly which has prevailed throughout the period the campaign has covered, and which has exacted its usual toll of lives and men."

FRENCH AND GATACUE UNITE. There are signs of important movements developing in the north of Cape Colony. General French has succeeded in getting in touch with General Gatacre, possibly making a combination of the two forces, and the concentration of the two forces, which is believed to be the ground work of Lord Roberts' plan of campaign.

The War Office announces that the casualties reported by General Buller yesterday occurred in the battalions of General Lytton's brigade, which, so far as known at the War Office, was not engaged in the capture of Spion Kop. It follows, therefore, that they are additional to the considerable casualties which General Buller has reported as having occurred at Spion Kop.

BOERS CLAIM GEN. BULLER MUST RETREAT.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—Some of the papers here claim to have a telegram from Pretoria saying that General Buller was ordered to retreat. The Boers claim that the British are in full retreat. The Boers claim that the British are in full retreat. The Boers claim that the British are in full retreat.

Blind and Gag Four Men and Rob a Factory Safe.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire. CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—Three masked robbers entered the factory of Dr. Peter Fughey & Sons last night, bound and gagged four employees of the concern, blew open the safe and escaped with $1,000 in notes and valuable papers. The explosion shattered the safe and made a complete wreck of the office. The whole neighborhood was aroused.

Frank Murphy, chief engineer for the company, and Samuel Lower, the electrician, with two laborers, were at work in the basement when the trio entered.

The leader of the robbers covered the workmen with two revolvers while his companions bound them with telegraph wire. One of the robbers stood guard over the prisoners for nearly an hour while his accomplices blew open the safe.

DEPARTURE OF VOLUNTEERS. LONDON, Jan. 27.—The last detachment of the infantry section of the volunteers, numbering 181 men, were entrained this morning for Southampton, where they will embark today for South Africa. The route from Wellington Barracks to Nine Elms station was thronged with cheering spectators, but not in the same degree as on previous occasions, so the order of march was undisturbed. The Lord Mayor and the Sheriff accompanied the troops to Southampton. The battery section and ammunition command completing the command will leave February 3rd.

Interesting Scene During the Simpson Trial This Morning.

There was very little of interest in the trial of R. F. Simpson's suit against Attorney McElrath this morning. Most of the time was taken up with tedious questions as to the accounts between Plaintiff Simpson and Robert D. Daltiel several years ago. The books of the firm of Daltiel & Moller showed checks for $1,000 and $300. Mr. Daltiel had no recollection of how Contractor Simpson had come to owe him money. He was satisfied that the money had been owed, as the books showed that fact.

William Stewart, bookkeeper for Daltiel & Moller, testified as to the correctness of the accounts.

Attorney McElrath for the plaintiff attempted to show that no money had been owing from Simpson to Daltiel & Moller. Simpson testified that he did not remember any transactions by which he had become indebted to the firm. He admitted, however, that he might have borrowed the money and forgotten about it.

Attorney M. C. Chapman was called to the stand by the plaintiff in an attempt to have him contradict his former testimony.

Major McElrath stated that Mr. Chapman had told him that he had been mistaken when he testified before.

On the stand Attorney Chapman denied having made such statements to Major McElrath, and asserted that his former testimony was true.

Colonel Robert McElrath was not in the courtroom when Attorney McElrath asked to have him take the stand.

Attorney R. M. Fitzgerald objected to any proceedings of the kind, as he understood that Colonel McElrath had been excused from further attendance upon the case.

IN CUSTODY AT MIDNIGHT

Five Prominent Young Men Arrested by Constable For Cruelty.

Arrested by Constable For Cruelty.

An arrest involving several men well known in Oakland took place last night on East Fourteenth street outside the city limits, which has caused the accused a considerable amount of trouble and required in the preliminaries the action of a couple of Justices of the Peace and the services of Deputy Constable Quinlan of Fruitvale. The persons arrested were: FRED POOCK, PROPRIETOR OF THE MACDONOUGH BAR. VICTOR REMMER, THE ELEVENTH STREET LIVERYMAN. ROBERT SIMPSON, THE INSURANCE MAN. W. H. DOMES. FRANK PEDLAR. The last two are residents of East Oakland, in the vicinity of Thirteenth avenue. They were all charged with cruelty to animals, a charge which all of them denied in a forcible manner. Messrs. Remmer, Poock and Simpson had been out to Hayward during the afternoon, and on their return trip were accosted by Domes and Pedlar at Fruitvale. Domes and Pedlar stated that they had missed the last car and asked if they could not be given a ride into East Oakland. Remmer, Poock and Simpson readily assented, because they had plenty of room in their vehicle, and the team, which consisted of two horses, the property of Remmer himself, were in good condition. When the rig reached East Fourteenth street, a man stood in the roadway in front of the team and commanded the driver to bring the horses to a stand. The man in the roadway proved to be Deputy Constable Quinlan, who informed the party that they were under arrest for cruelty to animals. Quinlan had alighted from an east-bound car on Fourteenth street a minute before he announced that Remmer and his associates were under arrest. The charge was indignantly denied, and the party was taken to the station.

Chicago is determined to keep in the public eye, no matter what it costs. The Lake City has just added another notch to its record by having the boss bankrupt of the times—an individual who admits that his liabilities foot up $6,000,000. An interesting feature of the matter is that this vast superstructure of debt has been reared upon assets of $5,000.

THE OIL SCIP TROUBLES

The oil operators on certain sections lying on the west side of the San Joaquin Valley have been accused to the danger point of anger through the actions of the so-called "scrippers." Until the discovery of oil these lands, though classed as agricultural, were practically valueless. They were nothing but alkali wastes inhabited only by Jack rabbits and rattlesnakes and not considered to be worth taking up for any purpose. The discovery of oil in these sections, however, clothed the land with a considerable value and as a consequence there has been a wild scramble to acquire this property.

Many of the oil operators, in fact a majority of those operating in these sections, acquired their holdings under the mineral law act. They began work and while in the midst of their operations they found their property plastered over by the scrip holders, who, under the law as it stands, have a prior title to the property. The forest reserve scrip like the lien land scrip was issued by the United States Government to those who had actually settled upon lands subsequently reserved for forest purposes and it entitled the holder of the scrip to locate upon a similar acreage of unreserved agricultural lands. Much of this scrip found its way into the hands of brokers who in turn have disposed of it to third parties and it is the latter class that is causing the oil men all the worry and trouble which they are undergoing. Under the ruling of the court the anus of proving that the lands accepted are mineral bearing is cast upon the oil operator. Being different from almost any other mining from the fact that this proof is only obtainable by first boring a well and striking the oil bearing strata, the difficulty of securing this evidence is apparent.

The "scripper" has the authority and records of the United States Land Office to prove that the holding is classed as agricultural land; while the oil operator, often dispossessed by force or prevented by injunction from proceeding to conclusions to justify his belief in the mineral value of the land, is forced to abandon the scene of his labors upon which he may have expended thousands of dollars. The scripper so far has the best of the argument but he is nevertheless regarding the development of one of the State's greatest resources and arousing an indignation that may lead to serious trouble among those who are honestly engaged in delving for oil.

Write the Doctor.

If you do not obtain the results you expect from the use of the Vigor, write the Doctor about it.

Address, Dr. J. C. A. Lowell, Mass.

SHOULD BE NO DELAY.

Before another issue of THE TRIBUNE is printed, the Legislature will have convened at Sacramento in extraordinary session in response to the call of the Governor, and the long looked for resumption of the senatorial contest will be in progress. This time there must indeed be no such word as fail, for should such an unhappy result ensue, it is certain that the prospects of the Republican party in California at the forthcoming National election will be in great danger.

It does not seem even possible though that aught can come but success, for the stumbling block that prevented the election of the United States Senator at the session last year, has been removed. While no positive agreement on the subject is in sight, it is tacitly understood that nearly all of the Republican members have agreed to go into caucus and with this much accomplished, the rest should be comparatively easy. A caucus being an executive session will enable the members to exchange opinions without fear that their remarks will be willfully misrepresented or misconstrued by those having axes to grind, and in this manner it will be possible to secure an honest consensus of opinion rather than one colored either by fear of certain newspapers or desire for gallery applause.

The fate of the Republican party in California may be said to be in the hands of its legislative representatives at the present time, for if their work is done quickly the guns that the Democrats expect to fire regarding the extra session will be turned upon the enemy itself. The caucus should be a good thing out delay and it would be a good thing if those so deliberating were locked in a room like a jury and kept there until a decision is reached. Only one path can be traveled now—a Senator must be elected and the quicker that result is obtained the better it will be for the prospects of the Republican party in California.

From all accounts, there is a hitch in the program of combining all the railroad interests east of Chicago. Some of the smaller lines complain that they are not being given proper consideration in the schedules that are being arranged, and the prospects are favorable for a general split. It is easy to talk of the formation of combinations and huge trusts, but their history, with very few exceptions, is replete with failure. Human greed meets its own downfall from a rival greed, and while man may strive to outdo and outbid others and combine to that end, they often find that their co-conspirators are imbued with the idea of squeezing on the basis of a wheel within a wheel. The prevailing human passion to be the fittest survivor permeates the moneyed circles as well as the other strata, and this has a beneficial effect in preventing and in wrecking projects which do not promise well to the public weal.

The British losses in the Boer war aggregated 10 per cent of the troops engaged. W. S. WELLS GETS APPOINTMENT.

Governor Names Him Superior Judge of Contra Costa.

William S. Wells, the attorney of this city, whose office is in Martinez, has been appointed Superior Judge of Contra Costa county by Governor Crocker, to succeed Joseph J. Jones, who died several weeks ago. The appointment was not unexpected, because Mr. Wells has been for a number of years among the leading legal practitioners in Contra Costa county. His predecessor was granted at the request of a number of residents of this county.

Mr. Wells is a native of Solano county. He is 39 years of age, and has been an attorney since 1885. He was sworn in as Judge of the court this morning in Martinez before County Clerk J. E. Rodgers.

Judge Wells is now a member of the Board of Directors of the Home for the Adult Blind in Folsom, and of the Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind at Berkeley. His residence is at 1335 Telegraph avenue in this city.

It is likely that Judge Wells will resign from the directorship of the State institution with which he is now connected.

ANOTHER SUIT FILED AGAINST THE MAYOR.

City Attorney W. A. Dow today filed a second suit against Mayor Snow to recover money alleged to have been illegally withheld by him while holding the office of City Auditor.

The suit today is for $18,832.22, alleged to have been withheld by the defendant from $110,250 collected as taxes or personal property between April 5, 1897, and April 1, 1899. The City of Oakland, through its City Auditor, which was surety for Mr. Snow, is also made a defendant in the action.

A similar suit two days ago was for $6,508.72 alleged to have been withheld between 1895 and 1897. There is another action to be brought in the Justice Court against Mayor Snow.

Mayor Snow claims he was entitled to the money withheld according to law as shown by the City Charter, and takes the opposite view of the matter and has directed that the claims of the city be prosecuted.

E. Society. The subject of his lecture is "My Experiences as a Fakir in India." It was in response to the appeal of General Booth for volunteers to go with him to perform missionary work in India. Mr. Bayley was one of forty men and women who went and lived there for nearly two years, having renounced country, dress and customs to become fakirs like the native priests, begging their food from door to door, and sleeping upon the ground, and so on, and so on. This band of missionary workers was one of the most successful that ever entered that country.

Emperor William and the Seventh Son.

Although few people give him credit for it, no sovereign, perhaps, with the exception of oriental potentates, is more superstitious or more careful not to infringe on any of the old mystical adages than William II. First, there is the white lady, whom I have mentioned in these letters. Then the fear of a seventh son, for when the present Kaiser was quite a lad a sorcerer predicted that three emperors would occupy the throne of their ancestors in the space of one year; that one of these three, who should have seven sons would bring bad luck to the German empire and allow it to slip forever from the Hohenzollern grasp. The Kaiser always assures himself before going on horseback that he has a pierced 5-pennig piece in his pocket, supposing it will ward off danger. He inherits these scruples from his father, the late Emperor Frederick, who rather shocked the aristocratic Princes Royal in England by bringing a sprig of white heather, emblem of good luck, when he proposed to her.

Queen Victoria, too, is a little superstitious, though she refuses to admit it, and tries not to commence any important work on Friday.

When Death Is Feared in the Royal Family.

The phantom of the Hapsburg dynasty, like that of the Hohenzollerns, is a lady, and her appearance presages death or other misfortune. "Every tragic event—and goodness knows there have been enough of them—which has yet happened at the Austrian court," a well-known archduchess declares, "has been announced by a woman of rare beauty who wanders in the corridors of Schonbrunn castle." Different Austrian nobles assure they saw this inauspicious creature shortly before Archduke Rudolph's death, and again before his mother's assassination. "The white lady" of the Turinets was an ugly dwarf, whose appearance presaged an untimely death to some member of the royalty. Though the Italian court has no such visitor, King Humbert is just a trifle superstitious, and no matter where he is, or under what circumstances he makes it a point to change his linen three times a day.

Fortune Made in One Small Poem.

Kipling and Harnsworth, the millionaire proprietor of the Mail, put their heads together and launched the boom for the fund in real earnest.

To it understood that all the proceeds of the poem go the fund, so that there is nothing reprehensible in Kipling and Harnsworth getting all out of it they can. The first move was to get the poem up in artistic shape. The original manuscript in Kipling's handwriting was reproduced in an artistic folder with Collins' famous portrait of Kipling on the outside, and a center page illustration by R. Caton Woodville, one of England's greatest war artists, of "The Gentleman in Rhinoceros" who is the hero of the poem. There have been sold by the thousand all over the kingdom at a shilling each, the printers and engravers furnishing the material at cost, and the newsholders handling them for nothing. The first thousand proofs of the Woodville drawing on special paper have been sold for remarkable prices, some of them bringing 15 guineas each, or $75. Edition after edition of the poem has been exhausted, and there seems to be no diminution in the demand.

Now the poem has been set to music by Sir Arthur Sullivan, and is being sung and sold again all over the kingdom, and a London music paper has arranged a big concert in the Albert Hall, where what of the picked bands of the kingdom will play the music under the leadership of Sir Arthur Sullivan himself and Mme. Albani will sing it.

What Was Heard on a Haywards Car.

"He fat the piano—Do you know I didn't dwell in music halls?" "Shaw—No, what did you eat for supper?" "On the Water Front."

"It's hard to be poor," sighed the seedy first street man. "That's the worst of it. I always found it easy."

Not impaired his position as the direct word of God, a single book, one and whole, one Moses inspiring an author, one text as binding as another. Faith in the literal construction of the word was needed to an excess as much remembering true superstition or credulity as any thing set up to the Catholics. Science had set up no religion of law, nor hinted at doubt on the probability of a miraculous intervention. No physical theories had dimmed faith in acts of special character, the aerial perspective and vistas of time were very primitive. Whatever happened, great or small, was due to wrath or favor from above.

They were comforted by no misgivings, as Frank says, "The world is a dream, things could be brought into such direct connection with the complications of human affairs." They are only bubbles, those maiden fancies of love, marriage and motherhood. But what beautiful bubbles they are! Who does not wish that all these fancies could end as did the old fairy stories, "and they lived happily ever after." Pain soon pricks the bubbles, and nothing remains of all the hope and gladness of the bride but a bridal veil and a piece of stale wedding cake.

The only way in which happiness can be realized in marriage is by being forceful against its dangers. Most young women are ignorant of the fact that irregularity means a derangement of the womanly functions which may have far-reaching consequences after marriage.

A certain cure for irregularity and other diseases peculiar to women is found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine nor other narcotic.

"I was so weak I did not have breath to tell across my room with Mrs. Isabel Miller, of New Providence, Calhoun Co., Ky. My trouble occurred two or three times and the hemorrhage would be prolonged and the loss of blood was very great. I also had spells which the doctor said were a kind of epilepsy. I did not gain strength from one monthly period to another. I was very weak and nervous. The doctor told me he did not know what was the cause of my trouble and that I would never be any better. Inside News of the Extra Session

(Special to the Tribune.)
SACRAMENTO, Jan. 27.—The descent upon Sacramento will commence in a few hours, for the overland train this evening will convey the advance guard of the intended army of conquest. The country is so backward the capital will be loaded to the guards with legislators and camp followers. Many of the men of the country are being sent out for the second time, directly without stopping over here, and this fact has thrown somewhat of a chill upon the minds of the people who had hoped to act up some sort of a preliminary opposition this evening.

It is of course patent to everyone that the fight at Sacramento is going to be one of Burns against the field. A year ago when the contest was inaugurated, the people were told that the cause was then Grant went into the fight, with a organization perfected as the result of many months' hard work and the expenditure of thousands of dollars. Now Burns at that time had been suddenly injected into the arena and searched for a cause to fight. He has no cause, even, there is an entire change of front. Grant's forces have filtered away and are almost entirely gone, and although the cause is still the same, the cause has been semi-officially given out that he will not even visit Sacramento during the election season, that is unless the legislature adjourns.

It is very certain it is not going to happen. Of those who are still declaring an intention to vote for him, it looks as if they will remain there. The cause is still the same, but not know which way to turn, for the situation is a critical one just now and there is no chance to get in with the winner if possible.

That there will be a winner is beyond doubt. The Republicans are not going to get a majority. The Democrats are making a selection, for they realize that the course would mean certain defeat at the polls next November. As such a contingency entails not only the election of a Democratic United States Senator, but also the election of a Democratic Governor, the disfranchising of the State for Congress, the Senate and the Assembly. It is very evident that there is not a Republican with a prospect of being elected to any party prospects under such conditions.

LOOKS LIKE BURNS.

Admitting, therefore, that a Senator will be elected this time, the only question to be asked is, "What is the probability?" and Daniel M. Burns' is the logical reply. There are so many reasons why this should be so that even those who are not his friends are bound to agree, and seem to be going his way and that their apprehensions are well founded becomes apparent in the most cursory review of the situation.

In the first place Colonel Burns is the only candidate who has maintained an active and aggressive campaign since he closed ten months ago. When Barnes, Grant, Bulla and the others in the fight threw up their hands and quit, he passed the time in the most judicious manner as he has had experience enough at the legislative game to know exactly where the most effective work could be done. It is a term he must have accomplished a great deal.

Then, again, the sentiment against him that was so industriously worked up by certain newspapers has been allayed, and although they will doubtless foment at the next election, they have for the first days in a frantic effort to stir it up again, many of the members have succeeded in influencing last year's voters to vote for him. Now that they realize that instead of the papers in question speaking for the people, as they claim, they are simply echoing the personal and party prejudices of a few

A third factor in Colonel Burns' favor is that his work has been done on so quiet a basis that the opposition is floundering about in the dark. The opposition has no definite plans as to what it wants to do. The only plans are to be. Although they suspect certain members they do not like to voice their doubts lest they might be or become the cause of a split in the opposition in their own camp. Until the first roll is called in caucus, therefore, the Colonel's foes will be on a wild goose chase, and the Colonel's friends will be elevated, they will make their decisions "Just in time to be too late."

AN OPPOSITION SCHEME.

There is a little scheme afoot by which they think they can obtain an unliking of what is going on and incidentally strengthen the opposition forces at the caucus. The scheme is to have a preliminary caucus of all the anti-Burns elements, at which gathering they are hopeful of securing from forty-five to fifty delegates to the caucus. The delegates to be elected, a rule accepted, and then a test vote taken of the strength of the various candidates. The one polling the most votes is to be forced to the caucus, and then they will go into their regular caucus and vote solidly day in and day out. The scheme is a very well considered one, and will, they think, insure the caucus win, after which they will try some other plans.

This sounds all very well to the men, but they have a vote projection there will be a vast difference. In the first place, there is no one to lead this forlorn hope; the only man who has been suggested as a candidate of performance is Green, Jim Brown and the champions of the late H. S. Grant and the late John W. Johnson. It is to find it a mighty difficult task to consolidate the various elements that have to be controlled with in all probability no one to lead them. The caucus will never be held, and if it is, it is safe to say that there will not be enough in attendance to elect anyone.

[illegible]

tion in the Governor's call would result in being done, but that would undoubtedly be rushed through possible haste.
The adjournment would be reached within a few days from the time the session was called.

AN EVENTFUL OCCASION.

Monday, therefore, will be an exceptionally momentous day, for upon it hangs some hundred matters. It is probable that, should there be any serious accident, the senatorial caucus to result in postponing it. The stay of the caucus can be considered indefinite, because the senatorial candidates selected everything they can practically over.

Colonel Burns is not preclaiming his support of the caucus, but he is not otherwise. It is certain that he will be on the side that is opposed to delay, for he realizes the ill effects that will result should the caucus be postponed.
The caucus will be a protracted one. All his endeavors will, therefore, be in favor of a speedy caucus, and as a number of the other members are in the same mood, the probability of getting into caucus as speedily as possible, the indications are promising for that procedure.

Outside of the caucus and Irving M.
Hunt, there is no doubt that any other candidates will be on the scene, though many an ambitious aspirant for the toga, will be disappointed. The odds are in favor of being fortunate enough to win the prize. Bent will have headquarters at full blast, and will not suffer for want of material for his campaign. The Honorable Kelly and Senator Davis, ex-
-Mayor Elliot of San Francisco is expected to have a finger in the pie for him.

At least now he stands, for although on the ground his henchmen have been telling him how voters are piling up for him.

What I Think of the Boer War

By CAPT. THOS. MEIN, of Jackson Street, who was once sentenced to death at Johannesburg

People in this country do not understand the conditions that have prevailed in the Transval for years. If they did they would not be so ready to sympathize with the Transval. I have been in this country and who have not become familiar with the condition of affairs naturally sympathize with the Transval. I have been in this country and who have not become familiar with the condition of affairs naturally sympathize with the Transval. I have been in this country and who have not become familiar with the condition of affairs naturally sympathize with the Transval.

There and fight or get out of South Africa. This has become so especially since the Jameson raid. Since that time the Boers have been spending money in arms and ammunition, and they have been so successful that they have had special agents spread all over poisoning the minds of the residents at the Cape and Natal. They have been so strong that at one time Cape Colony was about ready to secede. That is, the Dutch residents were.

My proposition as it exists, I am sure all know that of the country had not been such there would have been no trouble. But who brought the money there to develop the place of this country. It was the English, German, and Dutch. It was the greater part of the capital invested there came from England. At one time the English were the only money in the country. There was no fast that in had any African ported by six teams. They built up the country and that beautiful place, Johannesburg, which has a population of over 100,000 people. The Boers, who are called, own all of the mines in that country, and it is safe to say they own everything that is valuable. With all the interests at stake they have no one more to rely on than the city or national government and the law has been made so that they can't even get away from the law. The white population was about 125,000. The Boers numbered about 15,000. The latter rule the country. The Umlanders pay nine-tenths of the taxes in that country to the government. The very nine-tenths of the taxes for the schools in which no English is taught. The children use the Umlander language in that country, which is no good to them.

The government will not permit a system to be constructed. All refuse is taken away in wagons. The water supply is poor and scarce. Poor families have no money to buy food and necessities, but could not get any. They will not permit companies to bring water to the city. They don't want to make it a desirable place to live. They are afraid to account of their inbred hatred of England.

If Americans had gone into that country with the capital that has been invested in England, they would have been trouble all over before this. Englishmen are naturally law abiding citizens, and put up with a great deal.

England was taken at a great disadvantage when the war broke out. The Boers were fortified for the conflict, and

The English were not. The Boers have adopted the tactics that they have always practiced. They do their fighting from behind rocks. If the English were to do the same, they would win. The Boers they will whip the Boers all right. The English have no other way to enter the country than through Ladysmith. The only way to get a chance of it is that they will become so foolish. What they should do is to wait and shell the Boers out. If let alone, the English will finally do this. I would lose myself rather than see the Boers. I would rather they ever get those fellows loose from behind the rocks. Then God help them. Englishmen are brave fighters and once they have begun by the Boers it will be all over.

Mayor Snow has compared the war of Boers to that made by this country. At the same time, the Boers are not of any independence. The situations are entirely different. It is the Englishmen in the Transvaal who are the aggressors in the war against the Boers. The Boers of the Transvaal want to govern that country as long as they live with a rod of iron. It is a government of one man. He is the judicial, legislative and executive together. If the Supreme Court disagrees with him, he can have them silenced out of office. This was done in the case of Chief Justice Krige, who had been elected for life according to the law. They turned him down, because he did not agree with what the Boers want was entirely contrary to his wishes.

The Boers are a treacherous people. They betrayed me and my companions.

er they had us arrested they told us that if we would plead guilty to a certain crime we would be fined $75.00 each. On advice of our attorneys we pleaded guilty. They then took us some 4000 miles from home and had us imprisoned for a whole of us. After being imprisoned six weeks we were allowed to purchase our freedom by paying $30.000 each. In just as well convinced that Kruger was not going to punish our cases for what we would show up the corruption of government.

1958 the output of gold in the Transvaal was $30,000,000. The value of the gold production produced about $75,000,000. Had it not been for the war, the output of this year would have exceeded $100,000,000.

A WEEK WITH THE MUSICIANS

Written for THE TRIBUNE by JOHN W. METCALF

[All communications to the musical department of THE TRIBUNE should be addressed to John W. McCall, care of this paper.]

The welcome given Mme. Emma Nevada at her concert last Tuesday evening was a most cordial one and the audience appeared to enjoy the music.

While the theater was well filled, had not been that she had given previously at her Oakland and San Francisco concerts, in San Francisco, which were attended by Oakland people, the house would have been packed.

The audience was very enthusiastic and recalls were the rule of the evening.

The program read "subject to change, according to the number of the number substituted were not indicated." Indicating the listening audience somewhat in doubt at times. This custom is not a together with the fact that while the average concert goer it may not make so much difference, still, to the person of musical temperament it is most annoying.

Madame Nevada sang delightfully, describing the "cavalry of the annals of the gold," which made itself especially noticeable in the upper register of her voice.
Here is a voice known as "coloratura," or florid, which is not only more much more enjoyable in itself, brilliant music, but not so with Mme. Nevada. In prime form, the "cavalry of the annals of gold," is in the brilliant "Ah! fors e tu l'."
from Traviata, which has always been a "cavalry du ballet" with the grunge prime form. The "cavalry of the annals of gold," Nevada's singing in the "art which equals art," and the perfection of every detail, and herein lies the artist, a less one, where, which is the possession of or singer, should take to heart. These with sincerity and absence of manner will reveal the artist, the artist, the the most satisfactory and enduring results.
Mr. Blumensberg's cello playing is always enjoyable. There seems to be little wanting in his playing to satisfy the most critical; tone, technique and soul are all there, which is the possession of a great, magnificent cello, again which he says, any one must be impervious to the effect not to be influenced by it.

Mr. Pratt, the accompanist and pianist, deserves especially for his very fine accompanying, for it is in this field that he excels. He is essentially an accompanist rather than a soloist, and his style of playing is of a superior work. For instance, in the waltz by Gullit he was very enjoyable.

There were also heard somewhat in breadth of conception, clearness and depth of interpretation.

The "Rubinstein Romance" was played in a way that the essential characteristic, which the name would imply was entirely wanting.

At a concert given by the San Francisco "Arión Male Chorus" on last Sunday evening a very successful program was presented. The leader of the Arión Male Chorus is the principal German singing society of San Francisco and sustains among the German-American musical organizations a high position. The Arión male chorus holds in that city, being, however, a much younger organization.

At the concert, Mr. Julius Hansen was the soloist upon this occasion. Mrs. de Semenario sang "Elsa's Dream," from "Lohengrin," and Mr. Hansen sang the tenor solo from Meit's "Magic Flute."

The first of the series of concerts to be given at Hearst Hall in Berkeley took place last Sunday afternoon. The Henry Holmes singing quartet furnished the program, assisted by Mrs. Charles Olcott Richards.

There was a large audience in attendance, and every one was delighted. The program given on this occasion was as follows:

String quartet in E flat, Op. 12
Songs (a) Intermezzo, Schumann

(b) 'Auf Flügen des Gesanges'.....Schumann
(c) Old English Ditty.
Mr. Charles Olof Richards.
String quartet, D Minor.....Schumann
The quartet will give a series of fortnightly concerts at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s Mail in San Francisco, the first concert occurring on Tuesday, April 12th.

Or this occasion Miss Cecil Hardy, who has returned from a long period of study abroad, will be the soloist.

(Pianists—Miss Fiedeline Goldman.)

The annual Burns concert, given by St. Andrew's Society and Club, at the Scottish and United Free Church last Thursday evening and was enjoyed by a large audience. The program was a most successful one, and rendered by a pipar "en costume," songs of Scotland which are dear to the heart of the Scot, recitations, whistling solos, and songs of the Gaelic language, some of tender years. The program concluded with "Auld Lang Syne," in which the audience joined most heartily.

The vocal solo part was well Lindsay, Mr. Robert Howden, Miss Daisy Keena, Mrs. John Madden, Mr. Robert Lloyd, and Miss Margaret Walker. Craig of Portland, Miss Gertrude Judi, Mr. W. M. Ogilvie, Miss Velma Martland, Miss Daisy Planteaux and others.

As an example of unadulterated dis-ward for the eternal fitness of things, the following clipping from a San Francisco morning paper of recent date contains some remarks which are as grand as pastoral opera," with all mechanical effects and scenery, entitled "The Birth of Christ," or "Light of the World," which was produced in a highly creditable manner," etc., the article goes on to state: "The opera is replete with tuneful airs and songs, and the choruses were well sung. Numerous tableaux and transformation scene were presented in fine effect. Between the acts Miss Maudie sang the 'Silly Mockers' with much gusto that was well received. The drama concluded with the fantastic ballets, 'The Magpie Baby,' and 'The Serpentine Dance.'"

It seems that both the Berkeley and Stanford Glee Clubs returned from their recent concert tour with a deficit to their account. At the Berkeley concert the Stanford Club gave a concert on last Saturday evening in the new Assembly hall, clearing over $200, thereby reducing its debt to less than half of what it was. A good concert by the Berkeley boys, well planned and managed, might help them out also.

Madame Melba is sick in Berlin with a gripe! It may be the effects of the royal order with which she was invested for so long for her services. She recently gave a concert in Vienna.

The Original Nashville Students gave a concert in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last evening. The program consisted of jubilee melodies, solos, duos and choruses, rendered in their inimicable manner.

The next concert of the San Francisco Symphony Society, under the leadership

Mr. Henry Holmes, will take place at Grand Opera House on Thursday evening of next week. Mrs. Elsie Macdonald, of recent meeting, was elected president of the organization, in recognition of the invaluable aid rendered by her to the cause. It is rumored that the concert was only through Mrs. Hearst's generosity that these symphony concerts have made not only a possibility but a reality.

Mme. Antonietta Treballi has given several recitals in San Francisco this week. Sherman, Clay & Co.'s Hall, assisted by Mr. Robert Clarence Newell, pianist and accompanist.

On Friday evening, February 2d, violin pupils of Alex Stewart will give a complimentary recital; they will be assisted by violin pupils of Miss Elizabeth Westcott. The program will include a concerto, with Mrs. Margaret Cameron Smith accompanying. This recital is intended as one of a series, and will benefit at least $100 for the cause. A few reserved seats at 50c on sale at twenty-five cents each, at the office of the Y. M. C. A.

ROYAL NAMES ON THE BLACKLIST

THE TRIBUNE'S ASSOCIATED PRESS LONDON LETTER

(Copyright, 1909, by Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 12.—The world has opened full of high hopes, is closing gloomily. The result of General Warren's Spain Kop action has had almost a more depressing effect on the world of out-and-out reverse, so keen is the revelation of feeling, after the short lived lull of the "Coke" boom, than been before. In high places at home, it is said, that one week adds such names as John Ruskin, the Duke of Teck and Richard Croker to the list of those whose papers teem with expressions of sorrow, anecdotes and panegyrics of the great apostle of art, who, it is said, stands a more dignified and complete figure than poor man, living on one pound ($3) a day, which, he characteristically remarks, "is the only fortune I have." His dwindling fortune was undisturbed, due to Ruskin's indiscriminate generosity.

NOT A CLOUD.

From the English point of view there is not a cloud in the sky. The relations. The war is far too engrossing to permit people to pause and consider the effect on Great Britain of the approach of the "Coke" boom. The Congressional action on the Nicaragua canal or the proposed increase in the army and navy of the United States arouses a ripple of interest. The Foreign Office, apparently, has not the slightest belief that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty will be torn up. The war is far too engrossing to permit people to pause and consider the effect on Great Britain of the approach of the "Coke" boom.

pro-Spanish or other meetings in the United States, and the British administration of the United States has declined to make any declaration or comment, for the majority of the British have made up their minds that the United States is friendly to them, and that the United States is not friendly to the Spaniards, and that the latter are the enemy as due to local political causes which cannot be taken as in any way representative of the United States.

The Bontoe cargo is still held pending the arrivals of details by the South African mail. But as the Bontoe is a 2,000-ton ship, and the cargo is a small percentage of her cargo is American, the delay is not considered important.

AMERICAN EXPANSION.

Reviewing the business of 1899 the Times says:

"The fact that in the United States the expansion of business commenced about a year later than elsewhere seems to explain the fact that the United States is the only country that American expansion is not so far advanced, relatively, as that of the United Kingdom and Germany, and may consequently be expected to continue for a while after the business of the two latter countries shows signs of contracting. The United States, however, has not been noticeably nullified by the occurrence this year of another presidential election."

It is curious exception to the general principle that the United States has been the only of all classes occurred the other day. When the Gloucestershire volunteers received their new uniforms, the new uniforms ran the same range as the old uniforms for the reply that if the people of England surrounded rifle ranges they must pay for them.

According to a private letter from Sir William McCormick, president of the Royal Artillery, there is no excessive rifle-feeding between the army medical officers in South Africa and female nurses at Colchester hospital, some of whom are urging the sole employment of male orderlies. On the whole, however, especially at the front, the medical arrangements seem to be giving the greatest satisfaction.

A SOCIETY SENSATION.

A sensation has been caused in society and Stock Exchange circles by the recent posting of the Stock Exchange names of the women, clients of well-known bankers. The brokers requested other brokers to communicate with them before they were asked to do business with these women, who were declared to be unreliable.

One of these is Lady Elizabeth Bertie, sister of the Earl of Lindsey, one of the oldest peers in England, while the other is a Mrs. Manby, whose antecedents are little known. She apparently speculated in stocks, and especially in Rand's, after the slump came were unable to meet their losses. Mrs. Manby is said to have been a widow for many years, and that of the women had very large amount of money, but they were dazzled by the prospects of making a fortune easily and brokers, who, by the strength of the ancient name of Lindsay, gave them a free hand without making any investigations. The subsequent action of posting their clients' orders in the street is a justifiable criticism, as it is an unprecedented action, and in the street the brokers are almost as much blamed as the women for allowing themselves to be so abused.

A new fourteen-pounder semi-automatic rifle-fire gun, made by the Vickers-Armstrong Company for the Navy, was demonstrated this week in the presence of the United States naval attaché, Lieutenant-Commander Colwell, and the Admiral. The gun has a 100 rounds weight velocity satisfactorily and 2,500 feet initial velocity was secured with seventeen tons pressure. The weapon will now be sent to the States.

FEAR TO LOSE FLYING FOX.

Sporting men continue animated lest Flying Fox should quit the country. The Man of the World says:

"The only chance, so far as I can see, of a Flying Fox running is that the prize is that an American society man may desire to win the Ascot dog cup. I do not suppose, for a moment, that Sir John will be so easily won by such a purpose." Mr. Whitney is said to be much richer than Sir J. Blundell Meade, and connected by marriage with the Paget and the Astor families. However, the sporting sections of the Pagets will not be seen at Ascot, as most of the money is in the hands of the over than Mr. Whitney, or with the rescue reached, we may take it that Flying Fox will not run for the Asotot cup. For that reason I hope the Asotot will be a horse fight, and ought to be such, a horse ought to belong only to a Westminster.

LADY CHURCHVILLE'S MAGAZINE.
St. George's is getting the Anglo-Saxon Review done daily. Randolph's Churchville's absence in South Africa. The third number appears in undiminished splendor, and the thing is being done. The number made for King Charles I at Munch, Stephen Crane and Gertrude Atherton are among the contributors.

The new magazine is drawing paying audiences. The new hippodrome, however, which has been opened at Leicester Square seems to have hit the popular taste and is crowded nightly.

A FIELD OF WORK FOR WOMEN.
A field of work for women which seems especially suited to them is the profession of librarianship. This is a field of work by no means as overcrowded as many of the others to which they are called, and there are thousands of public libraries in Great Britain, besides private libraries in all of these there is said to be an increasing number of libraries in the universities of library training schools. There are three of these large training schools in the United States, and all of them are

The largest of them preference is given to college graduates, and a thorough high-school education is essential for all candidates.

They sent their boy to college,
It cost them dearly, too;
They saved and speculated,
As happy parents do.

He was a splendid tackle,
His fame spread everywhere;
Men gazed upon his picture
And marveled at his hair.

Their boy was graduated,
And, oh, it makes them sore
To hear him say "I done it,"
Just as he did before.

—Chicago Times-Herald.

A TRIPLE EMBARRASSING.

"You'll have to speak to the Bagbag Pass Band," said the Filipino general, in some of great trifling.

"They are intensely anxious to please you,"

"Yes. They mean well. But every time a horse comes into a dead run, after a hasty retreat, they strike up 'Gee, the oncoming Hero Comes.' Tell 'em to stop that," sounds like sarcasm.—Washington Star.

MADE THE JUDGE LAUGH.

A constable was recently giving evidence in court.

in a case of alleged illegal betting. He said he backed Mery Corilla," observed the witness.

Corilla then exclaimed the president-navigator: "I never heard of a case with a such a peculiar name."

He means Marie Corelli," explained the prosecuting lawyer. "On the bench, sure, the dock and the gallery laughed unison.—New York Tribune.

—That's strange. It hasn't been said where the case was around here. I'm waiting to see that pugilistic son of a reformator. To-day he's around here; that the same boy is a Jew.

—Then that's just what I'd call it.—a Jew.

—That's just why?

—Because that case can generally find it in the ring.—Buffalo News.

A DOG HOUSE,

A chicken coop, a barn, or a coal house can't be built without nails. We have them in all sizes and shapes, and in quantity, and we do not propose to be underlaid in this line. Specifying of nails is, of course, not the best way to be comfortable. We can make it so by supplying with one of our gas or oil heaters. The cold weather is not over by a long time. It is not yet too late to get your evenings for some time to come. See R. R. Tuck, 511 and 513 Thirtieth street.
